

The Story of our Pumpkins

- Since 1974, Pumpkins USA, located in Farmington, New Mexico, has grown and delivered over 25 varieties of pumpkins in a wide selection of sizes, shapes and colors. The family owned farm covers over 1200 acres.
- Located on A Navajo Indian Reservation. They exclusively employ Native Americans. A team of over 700 during harvest months and a small, full time team year round. With unemployment in this area over 50%, this has a positive and lasting impact on the region.
- Their farming location in New Mexico is blessed with high elevation, dry air and limited insect population. These qualities combine to produce long lasting beautiful pumpkins!
- Pumpkin Patch Fundraisers use cover crops, this prevents soil erosion & suppress weeds and limits the need for the use of herbicides. All Pumpkin Patch products are non-GMO.
- The pumpkins are bulk loaded (loose, within the trailer). This produces a higher quality of product on delivery and eliminates the need for the necessity of a forklift for unloading.
